City rejects inspection proposal

By Bob Slatte
Staff writer

An ordinance requiring occupancy permits for all residential buildings in Granite City was defeated Tuesday by the City Council. But the plan is scheduled to be reconsidered by a council committee later this month.

A provision that would have required building inspections for single-family, owner-occupied homes was a sticking point for some aldermen. But the plan still lost by only a 7-6 vote.

Building Inspector Glen Hollis proposed his plan that would require owners of all homes — including new ones — to have their homes inspected whenever the occupancy changes. An inspection, with a $16 fee, would be required before gas and electrical services could be turned on.

Currently, all owners of rental property in Granite City must obtain a $25 occupancy permit, usually after an inspection. Each time there is a change in tenants, single-family, owner-occupied homes have been exempt from the inspection and permit requirement.

The proposed amendment to the city's occupancy code would eliminate the exemption for single-family, owner-occupied dwellings from the occupancy permit requirement. Under the plan, every building in the city would be inspected each time the occupants changed.

The plan calls for any change in occupancy — including changes in owner-occupied, single-family dwellings — to require written notification to the city inspector or building inspector. Permits would be required before utilities could be turned on.

Proposers said the change would ensure safe living conditions in homes. Opponents said it would place unfair and unnecessary hardships on

Building problems found

Madison city hall plan delayed

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Madison city officials will be renegotiating with the owner of the proposed new city hall because of problems found during a building inspection.

At Tuesday's meeting the council authorized City Attorney Casper Nigro to renegotiate the purchase of the Lohy-Sedlak Funeral Home at 615 Madison Ave.

The vote was 7-1, with Alderman Norris Horton voting against it.

Horton has been critical of the new building purchase.

"My vote is always 'no' on that city hall," he said Wednesday. "It's a boondoggle and it's not needed."

The action was taken after the council met in executive session with real estate agent Janet Partney. The building is owned by Bob Thomas of Granite City.

Council officials said that an inspection of the building ordered at the last council meeting showed several problems with the building, including a roof that may have to be completely replaced.

In October, the council approved the purchase of the building. The cost was set at $120,000, with renovations expected to bring the total cost to $300,000.

Part of the cost of renovation — work to make the building accessible to people with disabilities — would be paid with a $107,000 grant from Madison County Community Development.

That grant was originally to be used to install an elevator at the proposed city hall, located at 1529 Third St. The elevator would have made the council chambers and other offices on the second floor handicapped accessible, but there were problems with the location of the existing building; city officials said the cost was more than expected.

The city plans to move both city hall and police offices to the new location.

County explores drug abuse program

Solutions are few in the continuing fight against drug abuse and crime.

That's why it is refreshing to see Madison County officials considering a new drug court program to help first-time offenders.

Supporters of the program are going to Portland, Ore., this month to participate in a four-day seminar. The plan is to find out how such a program works and bring home the ideas for implementation.

Among the participants is Madison County Chief Criminal Judge Edward Ferguson, who has seen his share of drug cases during his years on the bench.

He is supervising the county's program and stresses that it is being done in tandem with several law enforcement and health officials — civil servants who know the dangers of drug use firsthand.

The Madison County group will be among 30 teams in Portland.

The program is the first of its kind in Illinois. Job and life skills would be taught to nine participants in addition to providing drug education. Offenders and drug dealers will have no place in the program.

First-time offenders will be given one chance to go through a 120-day treatment program. They will be subject to urinalysis and frequent trips back to court for progress reports.

The key elements of the program — the county's judicial system — Ferguson's office and the Madison County state's attorney and public defender — will cooperate and the county has budgeted about $600,000 for next year.

Officials expect to serve between 200 and 250 clients a year.

Another element of the program that has a chance for success must be considered before incarceration. The jail and prison ranks are too swelled now to accommodate more inmates.

We need to welcome all new approaches with an open mind. The idea here is for quick implementation, which is good. In the world of drug abuse, many first-time offenders don't get a lot of second chances.

Merchants count on strong holiday sales

Merchants recently set off the official rush for Christmas. But what kind of a rush will it be? Signs in recent weeks say it may be more belt than bust.

Department store earnings reports were lackluster in the weeks leading up to the biggest selling session of the year, and forecasters are pretty much unanimous in their prediction that the last few weeks of the year won't be much better. At the same time, merchants are unanimous in their hopes for an instant end to the recession.

It's hard to cheer people on to the checkout lane when they are low on cash or high on debt — or both. After all, it's only in recent years that spending-conscious consumers have come to realize the art of deficit spending, a habit born of years of high-interest savings accounts. Buyers are starting to spend less and concentrate on their debts, and justifiably so.

Still, a lot of jobs are at stake in retailing. Witness the past year, when the economic climate fostered a series of mergers, bankruptcies and layoffs that left thousands of people out of work.

November was a particularly bad news month. Kmart Corp. announced it would close seven more discount stores; Stride Rite Corp., 48 stores; American Eagle Outfitters, seven stores; and the Merry-Go-Round, Circuit and Deejay chains, a combined 375 stores.

As individual buyers of goods and services, there is little we can do to shore up the gross national product. But we can make some impact on our own communities. Forecast: we can make an effort to spend our own money here. Even when we spend this year is not the last, at least we can invest it where we live. Sales tax comes back to our communities based on what is spent in them. Such investments keep a local economy thriving and tells other people and businesses that this is a good place to live.

Merchants know what is at risk. The holiday sale signs went up earlier than ever this year. To them, the jingle bell season just won't be the same without some jingle in the cash register.

Letter writing gone with the wind?

For more years than I care to count, I've been quite vocal in deplored the trend of starting the Christmas season prior to Halloween. Very shortly and more than a bit smug.

Give the other holidays their due, say I. A throwback to childhood, I guess. Now I'm not so sure.

At Thanksgiving, when Chris complacently told me she'd written and addressed all her Christmas cards and was ready for her Christmas shopping, I thought (not for the first time), "Like mother, like daughter."

Then last week, when Dec. 1 showed up (far too quickly) I realized I hadn't even purchased cards and, as we're running out of time, there were only 25 days 'til the Big One. My card list is somewhere in the area of 70-75 and I don't send cards to people on a regular basis, but the kicker is that more than half the list requires, at the least, a quick note, and at worst a letter. That's a lot of work.

Once upon a time, I wrote a good personal letter. No longer. Certainly not 30 odd letters in a two-week span of time.

And like everyone else, I've discovered it's far simpler to pick up the phone. I've narrowed my regular correspondence down to about two.

About once a year to my old friend Martina in Santa Barbara (with an occasional phone call, but on a limited income, I'm not apt to call France for idle chit-chat), I send a card to my Ohio, my two aged aunts, My cousin Rog, with whom I have a deal — no Christmas cards, but a card off-season, but not the year after, if either of us feels the need, a phone call.

As I write this column, I'm way overused in writing all of them.

Whatever happened to the lost art of letter-writing?

I'm not talking about those pompous, sage-advice epistles Lord Chesterfield used to pen. Those were aimed at the young communications that once were commonplace. Gone with the wind?

I ran across some I've seen since and then. Checking a reference in a book recently, I found a short note from my Aunt Helen, written in 1992 and apparently in response to a question I'd asked about one of her cousins. Why did she keep it? I have no idea, except that I must have wanted the information for some purpose long forgotten, but was amused by her typically blunt and good descriptions of not only three of her cousins (one was "gay and pleasant; we all liked her," one was "alcoholic and another, 'a spoiled brat'"). The letter sounded exactly like Helen and I'll keep it.

When my mother died, I found among letters she'd kept, two that I've stashed away myself. One was written by my father in 1966, when he was age 11, to his uncle Fred Rabb.

Uncle Fred, a young man who was then cutting his legal teeth on the staff of the Attorney General's office in Washington during the Theodore Roosevelt administration, had (in the company of several other young staff members) attempted to crash Alice Roosevelt's wedding to Nicholas Longworth.

He didn't succeed, but apparently Dad was under the impression that Fred had been jailed for the effort. Dad wrote, "We read in the paper that you tried to get in without an invitation. We also read that every young person got a piece of cake to sleep on, if you got home, please send me a piece. I hope you did not keep you in jail so long that you did not get any of the good things to eat at the wedding. Did Mr. and Mrs. Longworth look very pretty?"

The other letter, dated July 9, 1917, was to Dad, from his grandfather, Joseph Madison Rabb, expressing pride and pleasure in Dad's enlistment in the 1st Iowa Artillery. The letter was on a piece of stationery, was apparently dictated (since it was type-written) and incidentally, postage was only two cents.

The letter (addressed to Chesterfieldian) in addition to the pride and pleasure, noted that my great grandfather had been a member of the choice of the artillery (he'd been a cavalry soldier in the Civil War) and warned Dad about the temptations of a primrose path, a young soldier conceivably might traverse.

One gets the impression of wine, women and song, though he spelled out only alcohol.

Dad saved those letters all of his life.

I doubt that I've ever written even one letter that could have meant much writing. But I do know one thing. Starting in '96, I'm going to start those Christmas notes sometime around Halloween!

Theft spoils food giveaway

TO THE EDITOR:

Since 1990, Don Hardware and Supplies has had a holiday food basket giveaway. This was done for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

This year, we are sorry to inform you that in the Granite City area that we will be unable to continue the holiday food basket giveaway. Recently, it was discovered that $2,000 was taken from the money we set aside for this program. This amount represented the majority of our budget.

We are truly sorry that we will be unable to help those that need it at this special time of the year. It is our hope that others in our great community will step forward and fill in for us this year.

Again, please accept our deepest regrets.

May your holidays be a safe and blessed one.

DONALD CAUGHRON

Contributors get a thank you

TO THE EDITOR:

At this season of Thanksgiving, I extend my deep gratitude to every resident of the Greater St. Louis region who contributed to our successful 1995 United Way campaign.

Thousands of volunteers worked tirelessly in this effort. That is, each year, we give our time, talent and dollars, we were able to raise more money than ever in the history of United Way campaigns. Because you wanted to have given hope a chance to the one out of every three people in this area who are helped by the 140 health and human service agencies supported by the United Way of Greater St. Louis.

You have demonstrated once again how generously you contribute your time, your money, your energy to helping others. For the lives you've touched and all that you've given — my heartfelt thanks.

Phone sales disturb peace

TO THE EDITOR:

I bought a couple of phones. Had to pay the bill regularly.

As a reward, every buckster in the western hemisphere can call me at any hour of the day or night to sell me merchandise that I don't want, surely don't need, and/or don't appreciate.

Meanwhile our Congress, which might be able to withstand this disturbance of the peace, is busy studying the lasting effects of real butter on boiled rutabagas, or how large a tax cut Ross Perot needs to balance his budget.

At the unlikely event that I ever purchase anything over the phone, I will initiate the call, with spousal permission, of course.

THOMAS RANDANT

with parents and other volunteers to watch over the children as they pass from class to class.

The use of hall passes is necessary for students to circulate throughout our schools and in some cases even to use the restrooms.

Schools presently are installing metal detectors to check for guns and other weapons when the students arrive for school. Our children need to feel a sense of security when they attend school. They must be physically prepared to study and not be prepared on around them.

At the Langton Avenue Elementary School in California the students have a new meaning for the first bell.

When the students hear the bell they know to proceed back to their classrooms and take cover. The ringing of the bell is a signal that there is gunfire outside the elementary school.

Unfortunately, our nation's future leaders may be facing the possibility of an educational breakdown even a school system in chaos due to violence in our classrooms.

Hopefully, positive changes will come through our educational system to yield these future leaders with the hope of a better tomorrow and a sound educational environment.

Our classrooms need to become a learning center and not a battleground.

'Mountain men' help bring history to life

After students in Allen Harris' history class at Grigsby Middle School finished studying the Colonial period, Harris decided to treat them to a demonstration of some of the activities they had studied.

Harris arranged for Nolan O'Neil and a few other "mountain men" — history enthusiasts who recreate the activities of early American life — to come to the class to show the students how the people they had studied lived.

Sarah Davis listens to Nolan O'Neil talk about frontier life in Colonial times.

Terry Johnston describes travel conditions in the late 1700s and early 1800s to a group of students including Josh Middleton, left, Brian Lane, center, and Andy Ellif as they look over the gear a trapper had to carry with him to survive in the wild.

Program helps low-income elderly obtain medication

By Bill Hunot

It's a matter of life and death. Millions of older Americans must choose between buying food and buying the prescription drugs they need every day. Medicare doesn't help with prescription drugs. But not everyone qualifies for Medicaid. But there is another program that can help.

Many drug manufacturers give away their products to older people who cannot afford to pay for them. Each manufacturer has different rules and procedures for applying for this assistance, but all of them require that the recipients need help to pay for their medications.

An information booklet is available that lists the names and addresses of participating drug manufacturers, medications covered and the procedures used to determine eligibility.

A free copy is available from Social Security Public Affairs, 12140 Washington Drive #106, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

People who have trouble figuring out the procedures for obtaining medications can get help from Community Assistance Against the Needs of Missouri (CLAIM). Although CLAIM does not decide who can qualify for the assistance, it will help interested seniors write to drug manufacturers to apply for the assistance programs. Call CLAIM at 816-398-3232.

Q. I applied for Social Security disability benefits this summer. I was turned down. Would it be better for me to appeal this decision or to start all over with a new application?

A. Appeal. An appeal can reverse the first decision on your claim, but a new application cannot. That's because families can request an appeal means, in effect, that you agree with Social Security's decision.

If you file a new application and you're found disabled, you can receive pain benefits only for months after your first application was denied. If you request an appeal, and you're found disabled, you could be paid back-pay based on your first application.

You can request an appeal within 60 days of a decision. Call 1-800-772-2121.

Q. In Orange County, California, they are planning to discontinue payments of welfare benefits to convicted criminals. Is there any plan to bring this kind of cutback to the federal system?

A. Social Security and Supplemental Security Income payments are suspended while criminals are incarcerated. I'm not aware of any proposed legislation that would restrict payment of federal benefits to criminals who have been released from jail.

Q. Why is the U.S. government borrowing money from the Social Security system, and why is it not paying it back?

A. Social Security is required to invest reserves in U.S. government securities. That is the only way the government can borrow or take money from Social Security.

The investment is safe: U.S. government securities are the safest in the world.

It is also lucrative: Social Security will earn over $1 billion — an average 8 percent return — from its investments this year.

The government has always paid off when Social Security redeemed its securities. Social Security will begin redeeming its large investments in 2000. Hundreds of billions of dollars will be needed to pay benefits to the baby-boom generation.

Humane officer change is OK'd

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Changes in record-keeping and who would dispatch and have control over the village humane officer were among matters dealt with by the Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday.

At a special meeting Tuesday, the board approved a motion to make Village Clerk Michael Kovar responsible for health insurance matters for all village employees.

She will also keep a list of all village employees, including hiring dates.

In the past, the clerk's office has been responsible for all employees except the police department, which kept its own records.

The board also approved placing the village's humane officer under the control of the police department.

There was some discussion at the regular meeting of placing that position under the village clerk's office, but several people commented that the police department was staffed 24 hours per day and would be better suited for dispatching the humane officer.

The board spent much of the special meeting in executive session, awaiting pending litigation. "That took up the bulk of the time," Trustee Mike Macek said.

The board also discussed hiring a new part-time secretary for Mayor Glen Wilson, but no action was taken.

Lady Warriors beat buzzer, East Side 59-58

McMillan jumper lifts GCHS past Flyerettes

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Once again, Denise McMillan was the hero for the Lady Warriors. For the second time this season, McMillan hit a jumper at the buzzer, this time sending the Lady Warriors to a 59-58 win over East St. Louis in their Southwestern Conference opener.

In the season opener against Mascoutah, McMillan pulled the same trick in a 46-45 win.

"YOU HAVE TO have a lot of luck in this game, and a little bit of skill," said GCHS coach Chuck Kraus. "We have got the ball inbounds with 13 seconds left, I called a timeout and set up a play."

"We got the ball back in, we didn't run that play at all. But we got Denise the ball, and she hit the shot, so I guess things have a way of working out."

"I'm ecstatic about this win. We beat a good, good club tonight."

But East Side coach Dennis Brooks wasn't too happy.

"We had three girls in double figures, and we outrebounded them almost two to one," he said. "But we still didn't win the game. That's been our problem this year. We're finding ways to lose."

EVEN THOUGH THE Flyerettes' big three scorers, Syolnda Brown (24 points), Sherita Watson (16) and Reneeka Gause (13) each had their share of scoring, Kraus said that was probably his team's best defensive effort of the year.

"Carrie Simpson and Geeta Kaur played excellent defensive games," he said. "Anna Tapp played the entire second half with four fouls, so she did a great job. And we (See LADY WARRIORS, Page 4B)

Wrestlers pin down three titles

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

The high school wrestling stars of the future, better known as members of the Granite City Wrestling Club, are up to their old tricks.

The team traveled to Palos Heights, Ill., last weekend for the K. Gerdert Memorial Tournament with over 650 wrestlers on hand, it presented quite a challenge.

BUT GRANITE City returned with three champions, one second-place wrestler and five third-place finishers.

"The team of 75 club representatives in all, mostly from Illinois," said Granite City coach Allen Kirgan. "We took 13 wrestlers from Granite City, so it was quite a tremendous achievement to do well in this tournament."

George Kirgan placed first in the 13-14-year-old boys' 106-pound division. Alan Oxford won the 99-pound division. Alan Winters grabbed a title in the 8-and-under division.

"George was named as outstanding wrestler at the tournament, and he beat last year's champion 6-0 in their match," Kirgan said. "Gary looks unbeatable at this point. It's going to be hard for anybody to beat him this year."

ALSO TAKING A medal in the 8-and-under category was Cory Nance who finished second. Shad Weller (88) and Debbie Grammer (175 pounds), who was competing in his first tournament ever, each placed third in the 13-and-under division.

Jake Tarij (85 pounds) placed third in the 11-12 age group, while Larry Meyers (95) and Ben Cook (60) also finished third in the 9-10 age group.

Steven Peach (80) was fourth in the 11-12 division, and T.J. Nance was fourth in the 8-under weight class. Michael Judd placed sixth in the 95-pound, 11-12 division, and just (See CLUB, Page 4B)

Red Devils rally, edge Wesclin 72-69

By Rob Raphael

It took a while, but the Red Devils finally overcame their defensive play and the result was a come-from-behind 72-69 victory over Wesclin.

Venice basketball fans are used to seeing the Devils' first-quarter horrors, but several late surges last year, and it took another great quarter of basketball to pull one out of the fire.

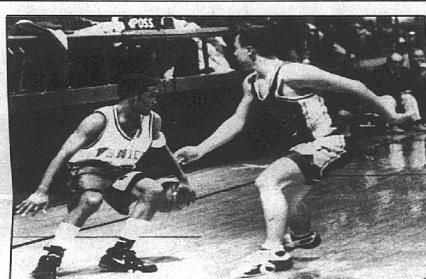

THE DEVILS (1-2) rallied from a 14-point deficit to hand the Warriors the loss. Venice outscored Wesclin 30-13 in the fourth quarter.

Devils' coach Clinton Harris said the difference was a full-court press.

"We pressed them the whole second half, and it caused them to make some turnovers," Harris said. "In the first half we were missing some easy shots and turning the ball over ourselves. We knew we'd have to play well in the second half. We didn't want to lose our third game."

With five of their first six at home, the Devils are in danger of dropping their third straight at home when (See DEVILS, Page 4B)

Tigers top foul-plagued Trojans

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Madison's Al Collins is a veteran basketball coach, and he has seen it all. He's not in the habit of pointing even a morsel of blame at officiating, but on Tuesday night he saw enough.

The visiting Trojans fell to 4-2 on the season with a 64-50 loss to Edwardsville in a battle of independents.

First, Collins wanted to make one thing clear. "We have to play better," he said. "The girls were fired up for this game, and we didn't quit through the end. But we were at a disadvantage from the start."

WITH BARELY half of the first quarter completed, Madison sophomore Marlene Baker had taken a foul, the last of which incensed Collins.

"There were two guys between the officiating and me," he said. "The other guy standing right there didn't do anything. I saw the play. It was the cleanest steal I've ever seen."

"But you can't put all of the blame on the officiating."

By the end of the game, Madison had three players sitting with foul trouble.

Another foul plus for the Trojans was all they got.

On the bright side, guard Demond Simms poured in 20 points to lead the Trojans, and the other Madison players reached double figures.

Collins said he got some good play from his bench, as Clifford Burrus scored seven points and Demond had five.

The Tigers outscored the Trojans in the first three quarters, building a 17-point lead.

COLLINS SAID he had a nice, long drive home after the game, and was able to clear his mind of the game and start thinking about Madison's next challenge, the unbeaten Alton Redbirds on Saturday.

"It's going from tough to tougher," he said. "We have to turn our attention to Alton, and the job we have to do."

"WE HAVE A lot of work to do before Alton, including a lot of shooting. We've been used to the flimsy rims all this time, and now we're going to tip them some Friday. We'll spend the whole practice just shooting, trying to get used to the rim, to get used to the ball."

Collins said again that even with the shooting practice, he'll be telling his team to use better shot selection.

Madison forward Demond Simms had 20 points Tuesday night against Edwardsville.

"We took a lot of ill-advised shots against Edwardsville, and we let the refs get to us," he said.

Freshman grapplers win tourney

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Two traditions began last Saturday at Granite City High School.

The first one was the inaugural Granite City Invitational Freshman Wrestling Tournament, which was held at the GCHS annex Saturday morning.

THE SECOND was the freshman Warriors dominating the meet.

Granite City had eight individual champions and two others placed third, as the Warriors scored nearly 100 more points than their closest competitor.

The Warriors placed first with 195 1/2 points, well ahead of second-place Collinsville (92 1/2). Collinsville finished fourth with 50 points, and Belleville West was fourth with 67 points, barely edging cross-town rival Belleville East (66 1/2).

The other six Missouri schools entered in the tournament did not fare as well. St. Charles (55 1/2), McCluer North (44) and Riverview Gardens (0) rounded out the team standings.

INDIVIDUALLY, THE Warriors placed in the top three in 10 of the 13 weight classes.

"It was a very good meet for us," said Granite City freshman coach Mark Whitaker. "We wrestled very well and showed a lot of improvement. The tournament itself went very well, and we had a lot of people in attendance. This is something we'd like to do every year from now on."

Granite City champions included Paul Johnson (103 pounds), Brian Loftus (113), Ryan Worthen (126) and Justin Hale (135) in the lower weight classes.

Picking it up from there were champions Brooks Narvaez (140), Matt Levart (152), Kevin Vennie (160) and Ben Temple (275).

PLACING THIRD at the event were Mark Derrosett (See TOURNEY, Page 4B)

they fell behind by seven at the half.

Poor shooting and loose defense let Wescelin pull off an 18-point lead in the half. The Warriors led by seven at the intermission.

Things got worse in the third quarter, as runs of 6-0 and 4-0 helped Wescelin to a 56-42 advantage entering the fourth period.

But with the shooting of James Buckels (25 points) and Matt Kennedy (23), the Devils turned things around 180 degrees in the final stanza.

"It was good to see them shoot from the outside," said Harris. "Harris said it's nice to know you've got two guys who can throw down 20 points in a night. We wanted to work the ball inside more, but their shots just started falling."

The Devils scored five points, but more importantly pulled down 14 rebounds — many on the offensive end.

"We really crashed the boards," said Harris. "Harris. "That was a big factor. And Kevin Roberts didn't score a lot (5 points), but he hit some big free throws for us down the stretch."

Tom Rakers, a 6-foot-8 center, led the Warriors with 25 points and 12 rebounds.

"They're a good team, and they work the ball around well," said Harris. "They're a good team," said Harris. "They gave us fits inside all night until we started pressuring them."

The Devils' Friday night game against Summers has been postponed, and will be played on Feb. 2. The Devils will play at Dupo on Tuesday.

Harris said he doesn't know what to expect against the (189) and John Ashby (119). Also competing for the Warriors were Sean Courtney (130), Kenny Cuyler (145) and Greg Poggenpohl (171).

"Everyone wrestled well," said Whitaker. "I even bumped everyone up one weight class, so that makes the results even more remarkable."

Other individual champions included John Smith of Collinsville (119), Nigel Simpson of Collinsville (130), and Brian of Belleville West (145) and Justin Carver (171) and Mike Vadas (189), both also from Collinsville.

Collinsville did very well, but Collinsville and Cahokia especially had some tough kids," Whitaker said.

Whitaker entered 13 wrestlers into the tournament, many of whom wrestled at the junior varsity level. He said he had seven or eight wrestlers who are still undefeated in their JV matches.

"I can't ask anything else out of our guys," he said, unless it would be 13 championships," he joked. "You just couldn't be happier than I am about the way things turned out. We ended up winning the tournament was a success."

The Warriors will attend another big meet this weekend on the junior varsity level at Howell High School. The team will take in Civic Memorial tonight.

"I'm not sure how tough CM will be," Whitaker said. "The usually has pretty good, good class teams, but there's no telling what they'll be like. I'm sure they'll come at us, though."

Tigers. Dupo has recently undergone two coaching changes after former head coach Jim Thompson was dismissed earlier this year.

McMillan took over on an interim basis until Dupo could find a permanent replacement. The school hired Rich King on Tuesday night.

Six of Dupo's players quit the team earlier this year when Thompson was fired.

"It doesn't seem to matter who the players are (at Dupo), they always seem to give us trouble," Harris said. "Especially playing in their place. I'm sure we'll get a good game from them."

McMillan finished with 31 points for the Lady Warriors. King (3-2), even though he shot 9 for 28 from the field. The Flyerettes, who advanced to the super-sectional last year, fell to 1-1.

Simpson added seven points for GCHS, while Tapp and Tiffany Monroe had six each.

keep that up," Kraus said. "And even though Denise scored 31, she's still not shooting the ball real well. When our shots start falling, we'll be even better."

Kraus added his team was not close to jelling yet, but he's happy with the level of play it is at now. He said the Lady Warriors are much further along at this point than he could have anticipated.

The Flyerettes came out hitting everything in sight, racing out to a 22-12 lead after the first quarter. A better defensive period allowed the Lady Warriors to get within five points (35-30) at the half.

"Denise scored 31, but every player contributed tonight," Kraus said. "Christina (Short) had only one point, but we won by that one point. It was a team effort, and probably the best we've played as a team so far this year."

GCHS outscored East Side in the final two periods as well, although the Lady Warriors didn't take the lead until the final quarter.

With McMillan warming up, GCHS crept to within three points by the end of the third quarter, and the lead swayed back and forth until McMillan's final bucket.

"Denise scored 31, but every player contributed tonight," Kraus said. "Christina (Short) had only one point, but we won by that one point. It was a team effort, and probably the best we've played as a team so far this year."

Brooks was not as pleased with his troops, although he said his team's improvement every time out.

"Offensively, we're getting better, but we still have to concentrate on the defensive side of the ball," Brooks said.

"We're just moving quickly enough."

The only major beef Kraus had with his team was the turnovers. The Lady Warriors had 21 Tuesday.

"If we can keep playing the good defense, get our shots to start falling and cut down on the turnovers, we'll surprise a lot of teams this year," Kraus said.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Staying close to home is wonderfully rewarding. A new acquaintance is likely to spark your curiosity. Offer assistance if you're able. A younger person reminds you that you're very lucky.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). A phone call conveys a positive financial message. If you're asked to call the shots, do so with confidence. Take advantage of your terrific motivation and make things happen. You're welcomed into a group with open arms.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Tensions dissolve, giving you a clearer perception of things as they are. Life's challenges energize you. Action is what that intuitively feel right. Be sure you're not acting out of a sense of insecurity.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Create a forum in which you can express your ideas. Maintain a firm grip on your financial reality. Be gentle with criticism. Practice what you've recently learned from a lover or mate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A relationship finally feels like a perfect fit. Ease up on someone who's feeling scattered. Share your safety with him. There's safety in numbers today, and you get the most done in a group setting.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 7). Stay on top of work in January and you'll undoubtedly soar high above your competitors. In February, justice is served. You're either in a legal or social situation. You're most attractive in March and June, and you may actually have to fight off suitors. LIBRA (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Extra work keeps you on your toes and invigorates you. Peopple are especially receptive to you now, so say what's been on your mind. Outdoor recreation is soothing and refreshing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Luck surrounds you on all fronts. You're destined to succeed. It's time to take a stand. If you're bold enough, you could show off your talents and score big financial points. A relationship benefits with honest communication.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Step into the light and win others over with your charm. Get out of the shadows and put your resources to work. Do your best to ease tensions before there's a serious problem. Long-range projects are likely to move forward.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Others respond well if you speak with conviction. Confront a lingering matter, and resolve it with a smile. People you meet tonight figure prominently in the near future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). If you feel something is worth fighting for, pursue it vigorously. A person of the same sex can teach you practical ways to heal money woes. Those with writing talents hit the jackpot.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Be willing to adjust and you'll end up happier than ever. Once you've thought about a new relationship, it will come. Instead, it's a bloated, shallow, meandering celebration of violence with only the thinnest of plots.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20). When others see that you're organized, they'll want you on their team. Take in a performance or exhibit. Give yourself a bit of a push and you'll resolve any second thoughts you may have had.

Scorsese's 'Casino' shallow, meandering

A Martin Scorsese movie always is highly anticipated because he remains one of the most intelligent, inventive and compelling filmmakers of today. Why, then, is his latest, "Casino," such a disappointment?

With Scorsese at the helm, a cast headed by Robert De Niro, a mob-Las Vegas theme and writing by Nicholas Pileggi, it should have been a winner. Instead, it's a bloated, shallow, meandering celebration of violence with only the thinnest of plots.

"Casino" opens with a bang. Literally. Sam "Ace" Rothstein (De Niro), who has grown from bookie to casino entrepreneur, leaves his house, gets into his car and, BANG. The car blows up and Ace goes flying.

THE EXPLOSION SETS the stage for a crash course in 1970s Las Vegas. Vegas, Ace says in a voiceover, is like "a morality carwash. Las Vegas does for us what Lourdes does for the handicapped." But by the end of the decade, Vegas begins to change: the mob paradise for gamblers and hustlers is slowly becoming a vacation spot for tourists — a vacation spot for families.

Who, who can fix the odds on just about anything, is chosen by Midwestern mob bosses to run a casino operation in Las Vegas. He quickly gathers a bunch for the mob and becomes something of a kingpin on the desert strip, a man of principle who isn't easily swayed.

Meanwhile, his old pal from the streets, Nicky Santoro (Joe Pesci), arrives in Vegas with his own agenda. Nicky is a crooked mob man who specializes in low-level shakedowns to make a buck. He gets his first taste of real power in Vegas and it is his undoing.

Act takes up with Ginger Mazzoni (Sharon Stone), a slick hooker who remains forever under the thumb of a two-bit pimp named Lester (James Woods). Ace is intrigued by her beauty and with many a thought, marries her after a brief, white-knuckle courtship.

For a savvy man, Ace turns up dumb when it comes to Ginger. Shortly after they wed, he deposits $2 million in a safe deposit box. Lester puts the account in her name alone and has only one key made! It is to be his emergency money in case things ever go wrong.

GINGER, MEANWHILE, has been giving Lester tens of thousands of dollars since he left him. But when Ace discovers her deception, he still remains married to her and he does nothing about securing the safe deposit box. Lester goes berserk, of course, but is allowed to live.

As Ace's relationship with Ginger ends, so does his alliance with Nicky, who has double-crossed them both.

The score is settled in a climactic mass murder scene, played out to the Animals' "Rising Sun." (Anyone remember the Godfather?) Scorsese has a terrific soundtrack throughout "Casino." The only problem is that the music takes over. The plot is so uninteresting that you begin listening to the great songs. Stones, Cream, early rhythm and blues and top 40 from the '70s — that you ignore what's happening on the screen.

THE NON-STOP voiceovers by De Niro and Pesci compete for sound space as well, all the more for a fast-paced film, which still feels longer than its three-plus hours.

Pesci certainly keeps up the machine-gun rhythm with his dementia. Nicky, who is more dim-witted than the role Pesci played in "GoodFellas," De Niro seems to be the center of the movie. He keeps the film moving, even when, on an even keel, he's just great pink socks and all!

Stone is out of her league here. Her histrionics come across as pretentious, acting class, and her drug-alcohol-induced stupors are laughable. Still, Ginger might just be her best performance to date, because she is well directed.

Don Rickles turns up as a casino manager who wants an excellent understudy. Woods is underutilized as the pimp, but is always fun to watch.

There is much violence in "Casino," and most of it is intrinsic to the script. But its graphic nature becomes somewhat gratuitous.

"Casino" certainly isn't the masterpiece "GoodFellas" was, and it probably is unfair to make the comparison, because "GoodFellas" was driven by a strong and compelling script and had so much more meat. "Casino" was based on the book by Pileggi, who based it on a real-life story.

The Universal Pictures release is produced by Barbara De Fina and is rated R.
